

Accentuating your best features with jewelry

by

Every woman is beautiful.
Every woman wants to look stunning.
Every woman gets confidence from compliments.
YOU TOO!

But...Not every woman thinks or feels that she is awesome. And every woman can point out a feature she is not really happy with.

You put on make-up to make yourself more attractive. Why don't you use your jewelry to accentuate your best features? Don't know how?

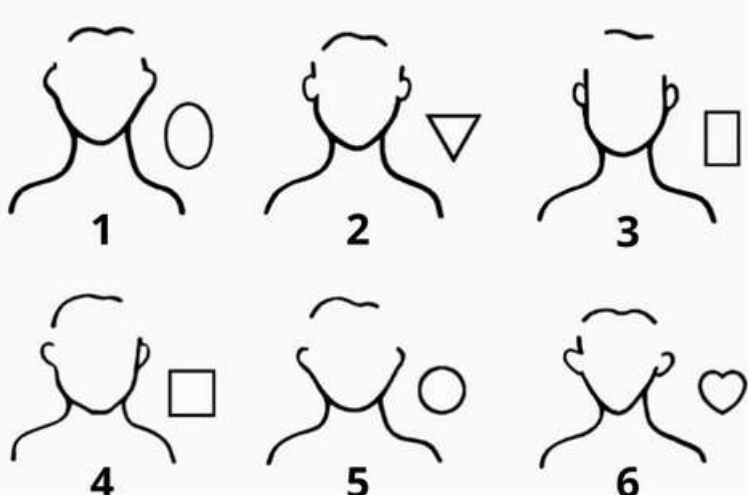

Read this e-book and you will be able to look stunning using the right jewelry to accentuate the great features you have!

Enjoy! And if you know a woman who likes to have this booklet too. Show her the link to the free copy and don't give her the download. With her own free copy, I can help her better.

Introduction:

Do you know that you only have 3 seconds to make a first impression, 3 seconds to impress someone? In those 3 seconds, the eyes go first to your face and the parts around your face. So it is important to accentuate the best features of the upper part of your body..

Shape of face	earring shape
1. Oval	Round, short
2. Heart	Round, oval
3. Long	Round, short,
4. Square	Long, round
5. Round	Long, narrow
6. Diamond	Long, small

Your head

For most people, a beautiful face is an average face: not too round, not too long, not too wide, etc. There are 6 shapes of faces. And the best and easiest way to create that 'average face' is to wear the right earrings.

The best way to accomplish that is to choose earrings in the opposite shape as your face. Do you have a round face choose long or triangle earrings. For a long face, round earrings or studs look great, etc. For a 'long face' take care that the lowest part of your earrings is above or under the widest part of your jaw. This is to avoid that your face looks wider than it is.

You accentuate your eyes by choosing earrings in a color that matches your clothing and enlighten your eyes. Choose earrings with faceted gemstones. The light catches the facets and they enlighten your face beautifully.

Your neck

Your neck is the next part people look at to get a first impression. And here the necklace can accomplish wonders for a stunning look.

When you think or feel that your neck is too short, make more length by wearing a longer necklace. And when your neck is too long, make a 'break' by wearing a short necklace or a choker. In this way, your neck becomes more 'the average', which is the look that most people find the most attractive.

With 'the average' I definitely don't mean that you have to look like everyone else. I mean that the shape should be average and you get the 'extra' or you stand out by choosing an extraordinary necklace (shape or color). The base should be average, but the decoration stunning.

A beautiful cleavage can be accentuated by a pendant that ends just above the beginning of the cleavage. If you don't want that people look at your cleavage or you feel that your breasts are too small wear a somewhat shorter necklace. The eyes are attracted to the necklace and not to the breasts.

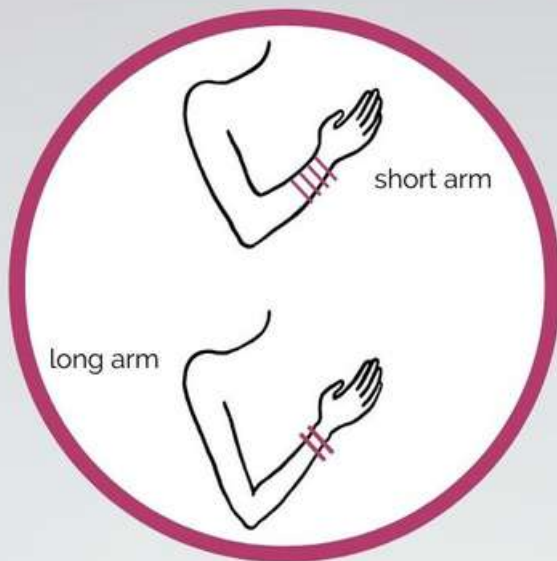

Your arms

Although you might think that your arms are not that important for a general impression, think again. You shake hands, give something with your hands, you care with your hands. And nowadays a lot of nail studios try to make your nails and hands beautiful. So your arms have to look great too.

Read my tips and things will feel better.

Long arms can look shorter by wearing a few wide statement bracelets. Shorter arms look gorgeous with a lot of small stacked bracelets. The idea is to 'break' the length with long arms and to add length with shorter arms.

Skinny arms look more stuffed up when you choose a combination of wider statement and less wide bracelets and wear them as a stack. When your arms are wider and you have larger hips, don't wear bracelets at all. Don't attract the eyes to those parts, with wearing any pieces of jewelry.

Your size

There are women in all shapes and sizes. And the one feels great with a certain size and the other depressed with the same size. Giving you advice on this subject is therefore difficult.

But there is a 'ground' rule:

When you are not happy with one part, try to pay attention to the opposite by wearing jewelry. For example not happy with your hips? Wear a statement necklace to get the attention higher. The same goes for the stomach, upper legs, etc.

You can also don't pay any attention to the looks and remarks from others. You are as beautiful as you are. And one extravagant statement necklace or pair of earrings that make you feel beautiful and happy is all you need to get compliments and feel confident.

Your length

In case you are not happy with your length you have quite a lot of ways not to attract attention to your length. And feel beautiful.

Short women can wear a long necklace, a necklace with a large pendant, etc to look taller. And taller women break their length by adding a belt with a gorgeous clasp as an accessory to their outfits.

Just one warning! If you don't want any attention to your stomach, don't wear the belt and keep the length of the necklace shorter.

Short lady, Create vertical lines with long necklaces, stacked bracelets and long earrings.

Tall lady, Create horizontal lines with belts, statement necklaces and round earrings.

Conclusion

Every woman is beautiful and deserves compliments and positive remarks. But due to the marketing world women not always feel beautiful and their confidence gets bruises. Use your jewelry to get the attraction to your best features.

I wrote some more ebooks and PDF's that may helpful for you:

And if that helps to get you happy, I am happy!

- ~ the stories of the birthstones
- ~ 50 tips to choose the right necklace
- ~ tips to choose the right earrings
- ~ bracelets that make you sparkle
 - ~ a gemstone color chart
- ~ the story behind your birthstone
- ~ all you need to know about pearls
- ~ how to clean and store your jewelry
- ~ how to sparkle with Christmas

They are free and you can find the download here:

<https://florencejewelshop.com/free-gifts/>

If you want any advice from me about this subject, please contact me (info@florencejewelshop.com) and I am glad to help you out.

Hugs, Florence from FlorenceJewelshop

writing & lay-out: Florence of FlorenceJewelshop drawings: Marijke Wijgerinck

